Rush Comes to a Close The latest updates

Foreword

Hello fellow brothers,
My name is Gabriel Costarelli, otherwise known as Gabe to most, and to the people that know me best I am Goob. Not necessarily my first choice in nickname but sometimes you have to roll with the punches. For those that do not know my grandbig, Frank "The Tank" Perrino, -1728- was the former author of the Beta Eta News. However, after he hung up the mantle, nobody was there to keep the newsletter going. I have taken it upon myself to revive this newsletter and hope to fill the shoes left by my predecessor. Now, without further ado, the newsletter.

Today, February 5 2023, marked the end of our formal recruitment season. Peter Alexander, -1793- took the reins on this semester's rush. When asked for comment on this rush season, Mr. Alexander said that he would send me a text with his official statement but he has not done so. Nice job Peter. However, that doesn't detract from the fact that we had an excellent rush season. We are going into this semester with a spring class of 10, with more news on this to come.

The latest updates to get you through the day

Foreword: In previous years, this section of the newsletter has been used as another "news" section. However, I wanted to take this portion of the newsletter and transform it into a sort of "chapter spotlight". This may be in the form of Brother of the Week, Committee of the week, Event of the week, etc. Either way, everything is going to have "of the week" at the end of it to make it sound more interesting.

Brother of the week: Griffin Leary. Griffin Leary, known to most as GT, is our current Vice President and head of -kai-. GT has been hard at work making sure that -kai- has been running smoothly and has been putting in a ton of effort to make sure that everything is fair and just within the chapter, and it has been working. One thing that is interesting about GT though is that his mom still calls and tells him when it's time for bed so yeah that's a little weird but other than that good job GT. I did in fact ask GT for a quick comment about winning this prestigious award and this is what he had to say "I'm honored to be nominated as brother of the week, and I am proud to be a brother of the Beta Eta Chapter. As Vice President I strive to maintain the best bond possible between brothers. I hope to do the best job as Vice President that I possibly can and to put the best foot forward and to make sure that everyone is attacking their aspirations and goals." Yee, Good looks GT.

Orono, ME Weather The latest updates

Gabriel "Gabe" Costarelli

This past weekend we had weather in the negatives, and it was extremely cold. I'm very happy that I can feel my face again. It was 24 Degrees today and it felt like summer.

Beta Sleepout The latest updates

Gabriel "Gabe" Costarelli

The sleepout is still a ways away, but with our current Philanthropy chair, Giacomo Pellizzari, -1775- seems to know what he is doing. Hopefully this year's sleepout, the 30th anniversary, is a success. The GoFundMe for the sleepout is going to be released soon.

Sports The latest updates

Gabriel "Gabe" Costarelli

Unfortunately, there are still no fraternity intramurals to report on. However, in the LUG hockey scene, Jake Heartquist, -1790-, Stuart Roach, -1777-, and Dylan Ralph, -1800-, Took a stunning defeat after the refs refused to call icing to send the game into overtime.
